Students are taught leader strategies for use in dealing with practical work place challenges. The course teaches participants the behavioral science theories to better understand how to lead individuals, groups, change, and organizations. Participants are challenged to use the theories and strategies taught to increase the motivation, satisfaction, and performance within their organization and to support organizational change. This effort is highlighted during graduation by presenting group projects created by the students in which teams identify actual organization topics in which they would like to see change. Groups then use applied learning to propose a calculated solution to these areas. When held accountable by the host agencies, the IACP has observed student projects change organizational culture, enhance officer safety, provide annual budget savings, and create new laws.

TERRY STOPS AND SEARCHES OF PERSONS AND MOTOR VEHICLES: BECOMING AND TRAINING A MORE EFFECTIVE AND CONFIDENT OFFICER IN CRIMINAL INTERDICTION AND APPREHENSION

Date: May 2, 2017
Location: Box Elder City Community Building

The purpose of this course is twofold: First, it will provide participants with information allowing them to know when they can confidently and lawfully stop and search persons and vehicles. Second, it will dispel the six primary misconceptions that surround this topic. Based on the most recent legal precedents, this class will provide participants with answers to the following questions:

1. Can I STOP that vehicle or person, even if I didn't observe a violation?; and
2. Can I FRISK or SEARCH that vehicle or person WITHOUT CONSENT OR A WARRANT?; and
3. Can I ARREST or TICKET a person if I didn't witness a violation?
4. How do I properly articulate my actions orally and in writing in order to be more successful in court?

As you can read, this class will be based on what an officer CAN DO, not on what they can't do. Bottom line is, if you don't make the stop, you don't make the case. While this course is designed for FTO's and PTO's in mind (are you providing your trainees with the proper information?), it is open and available to any law enforcement officer who wants to attend and become a more confident, effective officer in the field. This is no ordinary legal class. Participants will be exposed to an interactive, high energy class that incorporates numerous adult learning methods. Instruction will be presented using small group work, table top scenarios, video case studies, dispatched radio calls, and static scenarios outside of the classroom. The six primary myths or misconceptions that many officers operate under will be introduced and then systematically dispelled. Participants will be provided with a high quality training manual, as well as training tips for agency use.

This course will cover:

- The Stopping and Detaining of a Person Driving a Motor Vehicle Based on Reasonable Suspicion (Terry v. Ohio)
- The Stopping and Detaining of a Person Based on Reasonable Suspicion (Terry v. Ohio)
- Terry Frisks of persons and vehicles
- The Difference between Reasonable Suspicion vs. Probable Cause and when to properly apply these two legal thresholds. If I stop a vehicle based upon reasonable suspicion, can I already have probable cause to perform a warrantless search of that vehicle?
- Probable Cause as it Relates to Writing a Ticket or Making a Custodial Arrest
- Probable Cause as it Relates to Performing a Warrantless Search of a Person or Vehicle
- Warrantless Vehicle Searches, including Consent, Inventory, Belton/Gant, and the Carroll Doctrine
- Warrantless Search of Persons, including Search Incident to Custodial Arrest, a Chimel Search, and Probable Cause/Exigent Circumstances
- The many other facets associated with stopping vehicles, including controlling the movements and placement of the driver and other vehicle occupants
- Handcuffing detained suspects without invoking Miranda
- The searching of vehicles at later times in a different location
- Case laws associated with canine alerts

CIVIL LIABILITY ISSUES, USE OF FORCE AND MILO SIMULATOR CERTIFICATION TRAINING. TRAINING AND EVALUATING YOUR OFFICERS ON PROPER USE OF FORCE DECISION MAKING, PROPER ORAL AND WRITTEN ARTICULATION, AND THE CONSEQUENCES OF GETTING IT WRONG***

Location: Box Elder City Community Building

The purpose of this course is to expose participants to the three most important aspects of use of force training: 1) Making a Proper Use of Force Decision that is Reasonable and Necessary; 2) Articulating Your Use-of-Force Decision Verbally and Through a Proper and Powerfully Constructed Written Report; and 3) Understanding the Civil Ramifications that Can Result From Getting it Wrong.

Designed for law enforcement officers in general, participants can expect to be introduced to the two primary court cases that govern all use of force incidents in the United States. These court cases provided law enforcement trainers and officers with particular concepts and guidelines in determining when force that is applied is reasonable and necessary. This course will not only cover the legal concepts governing use of force, but more importantly, will cover when and how to properly apply them, as well as providing many training suggestions for future incorporation into participant's training programs. But don't expect to sit through hours of lecture. This course will be highly interactive, and will utilize a wide variety of adult learning methods. This will be accomplished through officer assessments, small group work, report writing, table top scenarios, teach-backs, video-based scenarios, reality-based scenarios, and use of force simulations. Participants will be provided with basic information regarding the course material, but then will be expected to move through the various levels of learning, eventually culminating in short teach-backs of topics and becoming active participants and evaluators on real life simulations. Participants will be provided a number of resources, including a use of force training manual, DVD, and a treasure trove of ideas that can be incorporated into an agency's training program.

NOTE: On day three, participants who completed the 8 hour use of force class have the option of becoming a certified MILO system use of force evaluator. This training is an additional 4 hours on day three.

The following topics will be covered:

- Civil Liability: What Constitutes an Intentional Tort Claim vs. an Unintentional (negligent) Tort Claim, including what improper actions can result in a tort claim and subsequent legal defenses
- General Duty Rule vs. Special Duty Rule Violations and their implications
- Graham vs. Connor: Objective Reasonableness and the "Graham Factors"
- The Three Primary Categories of Use of Force Incidents, and What Legal Elements Need to be Considered and Articulated
- Tennessee vs. Garner: When the Use of Deadly Force is Authorized on a deadly fleeing felon
- Means, Opportunity and Jeopardy in Deadly Force Encounters
- Articulating Verbally in Support of Your Use of Force Decision-Using Facts, not Conclusions
- Articulating in Writing in Support of Your Use of Force Decision-Using Facts, not Conclusions
- Training Tips and Suggestions
- Becoming an Effective Use of Force Trainer and Evaluator
- A reality check: Is your agency training in accordance with the requirements established by case law?
- Lastly, do you know what the national standards governing the application of force are? Is your agency training to these standards?
- MILO simulator system certification as a MILO use of force evaluator on day three

*these 8-12 hours will apply toward any continuing educations requirements associated with firearms instructors

A.R.I.D.E. (Advanced Roadside Impaired Driving Enforcement) is a training opportunity to learn how drugs impair driving abilities. Applicants are required to have two years of law enforcement experience to attend this class. Students are instructed on indicators along with the signs and symptoms of drug impairment. This class also will assist the officer in processing the drugged driving arrest. ARIDE will train law enforcement officers to observe, identify and articulate, and document the signs of impairment caused by drugs, alcohol, or combination of both. ARIDE is an attempt to offer training in order to reduce the number of impaired driving incidents as well as crashes which result in serious injuries and fatalities. This course is to build on the Standardized Field Sobriety Test practitioner course. In order for the participant to effectively utilize the information presented in this course, NHTSA has set a prerequisite of SFST proficiency. The participant will receive a short review and update for the SFST's. After completing that session, the participant will be required to pass a SFST proficiency evaluation. Failure to successfully complete the SFST proficiency evaluation will result in dismissal from the class. This 16 hour school covers several topics to include: an extensive SFST review to ensure proficiency, Medical Conditions that mimic drug impairment, current drug trends and methods of ingestion. The class will also provide information on the DRE process and how a DRE can complement investigations. ARIDE is a pre-requisite for any officer wishing to attend a DRE school. To register for the class or if you have any questions, please send applications to Trooper Rick Olauson, South Dakota State DRE Coordinator, PO Box 1797, Aberdeen SD 57401, (605)626-7816 Office, (605)380-8963 Cell, rick.olauson@state.sd.us

HUMAN FACTORS FOR THE TRAFFIC CRASH INVESTIGATOR

Date: October 16 - 20, 2017
Location: Pierre

This 40 hour IPTM course will introduce students to a variety of human factors that are critical to the success of reconstructing traffic crashes. While many crash investigation courses focus on the interpretation of physical evidence to determine "how" a collision occurred, this course will examine human factors to determine "why" a collision occurred. Students must have completed, at a minimum, IPTM's At-Scene Traffic Crash/Traffic Homicide Investigation course or its equivalent.
